

Press Release

During summer 2022 GoGreen partners have been developing the Policy and Practice Toolkit. Focus groups in Spain consisted of two sessions, face to face and online, bringing together experts from wide different areas like SME owners in tourism related businesses, business consultants, entrepreneurs and VET/University teachers.

A general view of most participants is their agreement to that one of the most important aspects that will contribute to the future success of the training comes from offering in one package different learning/teaching approaches: from the more traditional education to quick modern online training, through the simulation-based training with the role play, that companies, entrepreneurs, employees and VET organizations can adapt depending on their personal preferences situation and organization.

We talked and discussed together about the experience of engaging with the GoGreen project, project's main strengths and weak points, recommendations about enhancing how the topic of the project is taught within VET settings, relevance the GoGreen training package to private entities, and practice recommendations among other topics.

Some very interesting recommendations came up about improving the educational experience, practical examples and real cases adaptation and some more that will be integrated into the general GoGreen Policy and Practice Toolkit that will be released soon. Stay tuned!
